

MILLION SURPLUS DEER WORRY TO GAME OFFICIALS

Protection for Game Has Permitted Big Herds To Become Menace

MANY OFFER SOLUTION

Good Crops and Deer Is An Unworkable Combination, Farmers Insist

By William B. Brown
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 1.—What is to be done with 1,000,000 surplus deer?

That question is causing the Pennsylvania Game Commission a lot of worry, not to mention a deluge of letters and some thousand proposed solutions.

On the basis of careful reports made by game protectors in the deer districts, the Game Commission decided early in the year that there are approximately 1,300,000 more deer in Pennsylvania than are necessary.

The condition arose because almost since the commission has functioned the killing of deer has been punishable with a fine of 100 perfectly good dollars or the same amount of days in jail.

During the last decade the commission has carried on a ceaseless campaign urging protection of the deer and pointing the finger of scorn at the men who violated the law.

Old hunters to whom a deer was a deer and not a buck, fully antlered, or a doe, gradually came over to the commission's viewpoint. The hunter who shot a doe came to be looked upon as man who would kill a "kind faced cow" in pasture or dynamite a trout pool.

As a result each year several hundred thousand hunters searched the mountains for bucks and permitted the does to escape. A few were killed in mistake but not enough to prevent a steady increase in the female deer population. Good crops and good deer country seldom go together. As the deer multiplied, the farmers suffered. Reports of damage usually came from sections of the state where heavy crops are scarce and raising of food supplies are difficult.

Farmers in these sections became so insistent in their demands that the deer population be decreased that the commission opened certain counties or sections of them to the legal killing of deer. A special license was necessary and each hunter was limited to one doe.

At the last session of the legislature the commission sponsored a plan which would have opened practically the entire state to the shooting of deer. Organizations of sportsmen opposed the bill and it failed of passage.

Forced to take action of some kind to reduce the number of deer, the commission decided to send expert marksmen into the deer country and permit them to kill an unlimited number of deer. As in the case of deer illegally killed, the carcasses were to be turned over to hospitals.

The action of the commission immediately divided the state's sportsmen into two camps. One side favored the plan but the other opposed it just as vigorously. Men who had never shot a doe decided that if the killing of them was to be put on a slaughter shop basis with the hospitals getting the meat, then the fellows who had been buying hunting licenses for ten years ought to be given the privilege of killing them. Part of the opposition was based on an old time hunter's worry that hospital staffs and not the patients profited from the meat sent to the institutions.

Most of the opposition to the plan came from unorganized hunters for the average organization did not dare to change its position and preachers regarding the slaughter of deer. The only way in which such hunters favored allowing those who wanted to kill does to be given the permission was with the proviso that the names of all such hunters be made public.

BRISTOL HIGH DEFEATS STRONG BERWYN ELEVEN

Take Visitors Into Camp By Score of 6 to 0 Yesterday

REVENGE LAST DEFEAT

By T. M. Juno

Yesterday afternoon Bristol High revenge last year's defeat from Berwyn High by defeating them 6-0 in a hard-fought battle in which Bristol High was always the aggressor.

The only score came in the final quarter when Spadacino threw a pass to Wright, which gained 40 yards. Line bucks advanced the ball and then Spadacino carried the ball over for a touchdown.

Berwyn played a very good game and on several occasions had Bristol off its feet.

Play by play:
First Quarter—De Risi kicked to Berwyn's twenty yard line. After a few tries Berwyn kicked to Bristol's 30 yard line and Spadacino ran the ball back fifteen yards. Bristol tried three straight line bucks and failed to gain, so DeRisi was called from the line and played the part of full-back, he kicked to Berwyn's twenty-yard line. On the first play Emberger fumbled and Captain Opdyke recovered for Bristol. Bristol again tried Berwyn's line and again failed to gain and lost the ball on downs. On the first play Black kicked to Bristol's 40 yard line, Spadacino failing to run the ball back. Earle made seven yards through tackle, and Arrison made it a first down through the same place. Arrison was then thrown for a five yard loss, then a forward pass, Slatoff to Opdyke, aided by a five yard penalty, made it first down, on Berwyn's twenty yard line. Earle made four yards through tackle, Slatoff added two more and Arrison made it a first down by an off-tackle play. The ball was then on Berwyn's eighth yard line, but Bristol was penalized fifteen yards for holding, a pass failed and Bristol lost the ball on downs as the quarter ended. Score, Bristol, 0; Berwyn, 0.

Second Quarter—Noblett made twenty yards around right-end; Lewis tried another end run but failed to gain. Emberger and Black tried the line, but failed to gain, so Noblett kicked to Bristol's ten yard line. Bristol returned the punt, and the ball was caught by Black on his one yard line, and he returned the ball five yards. Two passes, failed so Berwyn punted to Bristol's thirty-yard line, Arrison downing the ball. Slatoff made seven yards through seven yards off tackle. Earle added another yard, Bristol was then penalized another fifteen yards. DeRisi punted to Noblett who fumbled, and the ball was recovered by Arrison. Arrison made a five yard run around end, and was knocked out on the play, but remained in the game. Spadacino gained two yards, and Berwyn was penalized five yards. Earle made eight yards through tackle. Arrison followed and made a first down. Bristol was penalized fifteen yards and on the next play, Berwyn was penalized 5 yards. The rest of the period was spent in each team punting. The score at the end of first half was Bristol, 0; Berwyn, 0.

Third Quarter—At the beginning of the third quarter Berwyn kicked to Bristol's 20 yard line, Spadacino returning the ball fifteen yards. Bristol tried Berwyn's line and failed to gain, so De Risi kicked to Noblett, who fumbled, Black recovering. On the play, Capt. Opdyke was injured, but remained in the game. Emberger and Lewis tried the line and failed to gain, on the next play Noblett made twenty yards. Two line plays and a pass failed, so Berwyn kicked. Spadacino returned the ball thirty-five yards. Bristol then tried the line, then the end failed to gain, so DeRisi kicked to Berwyn's five yard line. Berwyn then kicked to Bristol's 30 yard line as the period ended. Score, Bristol, 0; Berwyn, 0.

Final Quarter—Arrison gained five yards off-tackle. Spadacino then made it a first down by an end run. A forward, Spadacino to Earle gained only three yards. Slatoff, Arrison and Earle failed to gain and DeRisi kicked to Berwyn's twenty-yard line, Emberger being downed by Wright before he had a chance to run. Berwyn then tried a pass and failed, so kicked to Bristol's twenty yard line. Arrison returning the ball five yards. Wright made a fine catch of Spadacino's forward, gaining 40 yards. Slatoff made three yards through tackle, Spadacino added seven more, then two line plunges by Earle and Arrison put the ball on the three yard line from where Spadacino carried the ball over. The

VOTERS TO DECIDE ON SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION

Issue To Be Determined At Election by Sellersville And Perkasio

DISCUSSED AT LENGTH

SELLERSVILLE, Oct. 1.—At the next general election, to be held in November the voters of Sellersville and Perkasio will decide whether the high schools of the two boroughs shall be consolidated into one fine educational centre or whether the neighboring towns shall continue to dispense learning independently. The Sellersville Board, at a recent meeting, had decided to place the matter up to the citizens' preference in a plain question "Do You Favor Consolidation of the Borough Schools?" to be answered affirmatively or negatively. The joint board, at a meeting called by President Weaver at Perkasio, agreed to have the voters be the guiding factor in both boroughs, the question to be presented identically at the polls.

The Sellersville Board had also planned to present all aspects of consolidation to the citizens in individual communications. This will be the case in both towns which are akin, the data will most probably be similar.

All members reiterated their sentiments favoring an alliance which would move the hands of time far ahead in educational opportunities. Comparison of the courses now offered in the Sellersville and Perkasio High Schools brought out more than ever the need for enlarged facilities. In High Schools the size of both Sellersville and Perkasio, natural limitations are imposed and all children no matter what their inclinations are forced to come under the restricted arrangements. Either one is too small to provide special courses. At present Sellersville High School offers only the academic and commercial courses. The wide gap between the two remains unbridged. Just this year the Perkasio school authorities put on a third course; but, using the words of Prof. Cooper, a general course, such as it is intended to be, is

MORRISVILLE TO DINE LEGION BALL PLAYERS

Affair Will Be Held in The Community House On Monday Night

BIG LEAGUE BOYS THERE

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 1.—The boys who played in the American Legion Boys' Baseball League this summer will dine Monday night with "Big League" players at a banquet to be given in the Morrisville Community House under the auspices of the Willet C. Sanford Post, No. 433, American Legion. The boys will be guests of the American Legion as well as the "Big Leaguers" who will attend, because of their interest in the splendid work of the American Legion in promoting the league.

The banquet will mark the closing of the very successful season of the boys' league, and it is expected covers will be laid for 200 men and boys. Tickets are selling for $2 per plate, and it is reported that there is great demand for them. Practically all the fans who witnessed the interesting games between the boys' teams will want to attend this glorious affair.

Ira Thomas, "Jimmy" Dykes and "Al" Simmons, of the Philadelphia Athletics, have given their assurance that they will attend the affair, and it is expected these three players will speak. The Rev. C. P. Newton, formerly of Trenton, will be the principal speaker, and those who have heard him know they have a treat in store for them Monday night.

George W. Bugner, a councilman from the Third Ward, and past commander of the American Legion, will be toastmaster. Eddie Clark's orchestra will furnish the music and there will be other entertainment. In addition to the presentation of the medals to the Wests, champions of the league, a baseball glove will be presented to the best fielder and a cup to the leading batsman.

At the request of the National Headquarters of the American Legion that each and every post do something outstanding for the community in which they are located, the local Post decided to promote the boys' baseball league. How successful it was is known to hundreds of Morrisville men who attended the games. Four teams comprised the league, the Wests, Tattersalls, Union Fire Company and Capitol View clubs. About 46 boys ranging from 13 to 15 years of age, played in the league. The season closed with the Wests and Tattersalls tie, and in the playoff the Wests won the championship. The Union Fire and Capitol View finished in a tie for third place.

Each of the teams was managed by a member of the American Legion. Charles West piloted the champions; Harry M. Lair, the Tattersalls; John Sumner, the Capitol View, and Frank Parsons, Union Fire Company.

REFUSED LICENSE TO WED WHEN SPOUSE WAS NOT WITH HER

Orphans' Court Clerk Tells Woman "Intended" Must Be Present

TO 'RING' HIM ON PHONE

Applicant Thought Woman Friend Could Vouch For Her Intended

(Special to Courier)

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 1.—The Clerk of Orphans' Court of Bucks County, almost issued eighty-one marriage licenses in September, but the final accounting for the month shows but eighty. Yesterday two women came to the office. One applied for a license to marry and told the clerk that her "intended" was busy working in New York so she brought her friend along to vouch for him.

The clerk immediately informed the woman that the license could not be issued under those circumstances. The applicant then left after informing the clerk that she would "give him a ring on the 'phone tonight and get him over tomorrow."

Many other amusing incidents happen in the course of the month about the marriage license bureau. People know less about applying for a marriage license than any other single thing, in the opinion of the clerk. Nervousness is an outstanding trait among the applicants.

With eighty licenses granted in September the records for the year show that 1927 is 149 licenses ahead of 1926 up until the present time.

Fifty per cent. of the licenses were granted last month to non-residents. The applicants came from six states, including Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, New York, North Carolina and District of Columbia. The city of Trenton alone furnished twenty-six applicants and Philadelphia had fifteen.

The average age of the male applicants in September was twenty-eight years while the females averaged twenty-five years.

Nine of the female applicants and fourteen of male applicants had been married once before.

Fifty-eight of the female applicants said they had occupations other than housework.

Forty of the male applicants and thirty-nine of the female applicants came from places outside of Bucks County.

Eleven of the female applicants were older than their partners. On one case a male applicant, forty-four years of age, married once before, and whose wife died in 1909, secured a license to wed a young lady twenty-two.

Only two of the male applicants were under twenty-one, while seventeen of the female applicants were under twenty-one. The most popular age in September was between twenty-one and twenty-five, where there were 128 out of the 160 applicants classified. There were fewer between twenty-five and thirty than between thirty and forty. Not one applicant was over fifty years of age.

Bristol furnished thirteen applicants and Quakertown had eight. New Hope and Newtown failed to produce any candidates. The ages of the applicants grouped as to ages is as follows:

	Men	Women
Under 21 years	2	17
21 to 25 years	41	37
25 to 30 years	11	6
30 to 40 years	18	16
40 to 50 years	8	4

The ages of the couples as they applied for licenses were as follows, with previous marriage marked with (*): 31-34, 34-21, 43-43, 21-18, 24-22, 23-27, 21-21, 24-21, 23-21, 35-31, 32-33, 27-24, 17-16, 28-24, 45-38, 36-41, 23-26, 21-21, 27-26, 32-30, 33-24, 41-33, 23-23, 23-21, 24-18, 27-21, 39-24, 29-23, 21-18, 38-26, 23-21, 21-21, 24-21, 31-18, 23-21, 24-22, 46-43, 22-21, 22-16, 21-17, 24-21, 22-22, 22-19, 22-23, 23-22, 21-19, 24-22, 21-17, 21-20, 22-24, 22-21, 23-25, 37-36, 25-21, 27-21, 24-22, 22-21, 44-32, 37-35, 23-30, 22-17, 48-35, 24-22, 19-16, 28-24, 44-32, 22-23, 44-43, 32-30, 39-27, 34-19, 37-35, 32-20, 23-21, 28-18, 36-32, 29-33, 29-21, 21-18.

CLASS OF '28 PLANS PLAY

The abilities of the members of the cast being unquestionable and the play itself being a rare treat, all are guaranteed an evening of real pleasure. Save your money and get your tickets early.

COLLEGE EDUCATION PAYS

College campuses from Maine to California and from Florida to the frozen fastnesses of Northern Canada have blossomed forth in the early autumn with a brilliant crop of green, perhaps the only example of nature's handiwork which does don a coat of green at the time of the first frost. Thousands of boys and girls as well, products of last June's high school and preparatory school graduating classes, have entered upon the most important period of their education. Their motives for entering college are many and varied, and range from the desire to "make" the football team to spending four years in what seems a prison where learning is forced upon unwilling neophytes in allopathic doses. It is only fair that the freshman should know what he is going to receive in college and to what extent he will be benefited.

His association in a more or less intimate friendship with members of the college faculty should beget in him a proper respect for intellectual prowess. He will meet men who through long devotion think their lines of work outshine all others. Thus a capacity for judgment is formed in discerning the more important from other degrees of importance. Tradition gives the faculty collectively and individually the characters of tyrants and oppressors who make the otherwise pleasant days of college life drudgery and torture. But any man several years out of college can look back with pleasant smiles to some one or two professors whose guidance and kindly encouragement have made hard roads easy.

Constant mingling with his kind in all manner of college and extra-college activities has a large effect upon the forming of character in the young student. A man who can meet men upon a common ground of intelligence and good judgment, discuss the problems of the day in the manner which he learned in college circles, stands higher in the opinions of his fellows. But character and personality without learning do not constitute a college education, nor does a pedantic belief that "book knowledge" is sufficient. Athletics, class room mental vigor and campus activities all contribute toward the finished product of a college graduate. A college man has learned to think, to concentrate upon a question and delve into myriads of conglomerate facts and extract those applicable to the subject.

The trouble with reform cant is that it breeds so many nagging little can'ts.

There are probably just as poor fish in the sea as some married women have caught.

Many a man watches his step so closely that he cannot keep an eye on the main chance.

Some men try to avoid hard work, but in the case of many the word "hard" is superfluous.

"Our girls don't know how to love," writes an American singer. But they are practicing.

A lot of men got the knack of putting up an aerial long before they found out how to string a clothesline.

Boston announces the return of the five-cent sandwich. The whereabouts of the old-fashioned slice of ham remains a mystery.

SYNOPSIS

It is a bright summer afternoon in the year 1896; the farmers and their families from miles around have gathered to watch the famous trotting races that are taking place that week in the small, mid-western town of Maple City. The two favorites are Sloe Eyes and Blue Bell; the former owned by the town's leading citizen and keeper of the livery stables, Hank Armstrong. The final race is won by Sloe Eyes, but her owner's joy is short-lived when he searches the grandstand for his son, Bob, and cannot find him.

CHAPTER I—Continued

As though all thoughts turned simultaneously in the same direction the procession began to move back towards the town. Women gathered to discuss households and children, and to pack up the picnic baskets. Children strolled through the dusty fields, sated now with their popcorn and peanuts. But the men—there was but one ultimate goal for them, providing there were no quarrelsome wives to say them nay. The saloon! For these were the days when beer and cheer rhymed with impunity, and the politics of the nation were settled over a brass rail. And so, thronging gaily up Main Street, the swinging doors welcomed the troop.

Within the cheer was flowing freely. A great keg of beer rested

Still chuckling over Dave's mishap, Hank and the Mayor stood side by side consuming beer. But slowly the smile disappeared from Hank's face, and once more he turned to the Mayor with the old question on his lips.

"I wonder where Bob is," he began again.

"Reckon he's with my Rose," the Mayor smiled, looking up at Hank. "He usually is," he added, chuckling, draining his glass and then hurrying over to refill it.

Hank looked after his departing friend, the smile still on his face. But it was a mechanical smile—a strained smile that ill befitted the gentle eyes and the straight-forward face from which not even the flashiest diamond horseshoes in the scarf could detract one iota of the honesty that gleamed thereon.

He set his glass down on the bar, sighing. Everyone in town had gathered to celebrate his victory except his own son. He was hurt. He stood for a moment longer, then slipped off toward the rear side door through which Sloe Eyes had vanished.

Out in the night air Hank breathed deeply, looking up into the clear, starlit sky. Then he crossed the vacant lot connecting the saloon and his own livery stable, following the well-beaten path. Within the neat and orderly stable a negro boy sat polishing harness buckles and oiling leather. A smaller negro was sweeping up. And outside Blue Bell's stall stood on the bar, spigot facing the customer's side. A medley of hands and glasses waved in mid-air. Hank and the Mayor stood side by side.

"Full 'em up! It's Hank's party!" called out the Mayor, the contents of his own glass fast disappearing.

With a shout the crowd responded. Noisy, boisterous, happy, they all flocked round the keg again. The men lined up before the bar, reflected in the long mirror that hung behind the mahogany. Over the mirror stretched a row of pictures—the pace-setting horses of the hour interspersed with such pugilistic celebrities as John L. Sullivan, Jake Kilrain and Jim Corbett, all in hey-day of their triumphs.

"Here's to Hank," cried the Mayor, helping himself. Everyone raised his glass to drink.

"And Sloe Eyes, the gamest little mare in the country," appended Dave Doolittle whose habits, when it came to filling up his glass, were certainly not in keeping with his name.

With one accord the crowd turned towards the door. There stood Sloe Eyes, still befuddled, but now rubbed down and blanketed, led by a grinning negro. A mighty cheer rent the air. Hank smiled proudly as they drank the toast. And then the owner went over to his mare and led her to the rear, side door. The crowd again lined up, glasses refilled.

"You must a been goin' awful fast, Hank!" exclaimed an awestricken yokel, as Hank returned to the side of the Mayor. "Hear as how the time for th' mile was two four."

Hank smiled and nodded confirmation, seconded by the Mayor's: "You're right, Hank sure made fast time."

"I seen in th' papers," began a second countryman, "where two fellows rid bicycles from Cleveland to Toledo in seven hours. That was fast!"

At the mention of the word "bicycle" a little frown overcast the smiling features of Hank. The Mayor caught his breath and looked sympathetically at his friend. Dave, however, shook his head contemptuously.

"Don't believe it! Ain't no one kin go that fast," he sneered, looking defiantly at the purveyor of news. But the yokel merely sniffed, raised his glass, and blew the foam from off the top. But whether from intent or accident the foam landed squarely in Dave's eyes, much to the amusement of all present.

her defeated owner, rubbing the mare's nose, and chewing dejectedly on a straw. Hank stopped before the stall of Sloe Eyes and allowed the affectionate creature to nuzzle down into his pocket for a lump of sugar. Then, with a final pat he went to Blue Bell's stall and addressed the horse.

"Cheer up, old girl," smiled Hank, rubbing Blue Bell's nose. "You needn't be ashamed of the race you ran today."

Blue Bell raised her head as though she understood.

"And that goes for you, too," he continued, laying his hand on the shoulder of the mare's driver who smiled back, appreciative of his praise coming from an expert in the king of sports.

"Did you hear Bob say when he'd be back?" Hank turned, now questioning the negro boy who was so assiduously polishing.

"No, suh, I didn't," grinned the boy, shaking his curly head.

Hank wandered slowly toward the main entrance of the stable and stopped in the doorway, looking up and down the street as though hoping against hope that he might see Bob coming home.

CHAPTER II

An early fall set in with rain sweeping the wide plains of the middle west. Without question Hank Armstrong had become Maple City's most popular citizen. He and Sloe Eyes hung up a new state trotting record. He brought further prominence to the town by winning at the Tri-State Meet. And in the fall election he received eight votes for president, although it was said that his pal, the Mayor, voted twice. His was the opinion asked on everything from how to bandage the legs of a trotter to what the legislature would agree upon.

A rainy night brought the usual drug store crowds. In front of the cigar stand stood a group of idlers, watching a checker game. Over the stand hung a large picture of William Jennings Bryan, now in the throes of his first presidential campaign, with the motto: "16 to 1" printed underneath. Bentley hungered over the game, for the tables in the rear were all served with soda's now, and would be quiet for the time being. And besides, Bentley was no slouch of a checker player himself. But the quiet of the gathering was broken by the entrance of Hank, whose sartorial elegance was further enhanced by a long horse-blanket overcoat.

Two Doylestown Elevens Will Open Season Today

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 1.—Two local scholastic football teams will open the season here today. Coach Bill Wolfe's Doylestown High eleven that last year went through the season without losing a game, will open up with Phoenixville High on the Doylestown Fair grounds. It will be a veteran eleven that faces Phoenixville.

The National Farm School eleven, contested by many as one of the strongest and most formidable prep school elevens in the state, will open up with Salesianum High, of Wilmington, Del., on the Farm School field. Farm School has practically the same team as last year when the team lost out by a narrow margin of gaining the honor of playing in Chicago for the prep school championship of the country.

The Farm School line-up tomorrow will be as follows: Ends, Joe Lynch, Gloucester High, and Dick Elliott, Maryland; tackles, Butch Rosen, Cleveland, and Bruno Bernhart, of Arkansas Prep, or Wool Glazer, of Connecticut; guards, Bing Meyers, Glen Nor High, and Whitey Guisling, Glen Nor High; center, Baldy Rand, Erasmus High; quarterback, Stoney Stonistich, Hutchinson High, Buffalo, halfbacks, Bug Hogue, Glen Nor High, and Muddy Levin, Cleveland; fullback, Captain Butch Cowan, former Philadelphia Central High star.

The Farm School prospects of a great season are brightened by the return of Stanley Fideigoltz, of Erasmus High, who is back in school again.

Hulmeville Will Play Field Club Here Today

The Bristol Field Club, champions of the local Twilight League, will meet Hulmeville, the Tri-County League champions on Leedom's Field today in the second of a three game series.

Hulmeville having won the first game last Saturday the Field Club will try hard to annex this one and even the series, making a third game necessary.

Eddie Roe and Paul Barrett will play with the home team. Spangler, the former Willow Grove player, who plays first base for the visitors, has the reputation of making the longest hit ever made on Leedom's Field.

While playing with the local K. of C. team last year Spangler made a

"Ann is going to get married!"

"YES! She's engaged to a nice boy. He's not making a big salary yet, but he's a hard worker. They'll have to be careful of their money at first!"

Careful of their money! With a home to find, furniture to buy, marketing to learn . . . with the thousand and one little emergencies to meet that newly-weds never dream of! . . .

And a young girl, inexperienced in these practical problems, is expected to be careful of her money!

Ann will bless advertising. In the pages of her magazines and newspapers, she will find the very experience she lacks—the advice she needs!

It is when every penny counts that advertising gives its best service. The advertisements you read are valuable lessons in everyday economy. They help, as nothing else can, to make your dollar go the longest distance. For advertisements show you which article, at the price you are willing to pay, is going to suit you best. And the very fact that it is advertised is its guarantee that it will give you satisfaction after you have bought it.

The advertisements in this newspaper are a most valuable guide to wise buying. It pays to read
